OBITUARIES

It is with the deepest sorrow we have to record the death of Robert Evans, which occured January 19, at his home in Rosnoce after an illness of tuberculosis for 14 months. He was 15 years of age and a member of Melrose M. E. Church.

He was a bright boy and a good christian. Everything was done for him that skilled physicians and loving hands could do, but the Lord saw best to take him home. He is survived by father, grandmother and one brother, Meredith. The floral designs were many and beautiful. The funeral was held at his home by his pastor, Rev. W. E. Holly, and he was laid to rest in the family burying ground near Evergreen, by the side of his mother, who preceeded him to the grave nine years ago.
Our darling Robert now is gone,
His tiny spirit fled,
The little darling loved so well,
Is sleeping with the dead.
God needed one more angel child,
Amidst His shining band,
And so He bent with loving smiles,
And clasped our darlings hand,
His little place is now vacant,
The little clothes laid by,
A father's pride, grandmother's joy,
In death's cold arms doth lie,

EXPECT MUSCLE SHOALS QUESTION SETTLED SOON

Farm Bureau Expects Congress To Accept Cyanamid Company Offer.

Washington, D. C. — "We expect the Muscle Shoals question to be settled, and settled right, during the coming session of congress," says Chester H. Gray, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

"The situation has reduced itself to one in which the Cyanamid offer is becoming perfectly plain to all. Muscle Shoals must be used for the purpose for which the money was appropriated and speak; namely, for the production of explosives in time of war and fertilizers in time of peace. The present huge nitrate plant is valuable and thoroughly usable and it is mere nonsense and camouflage to talk of scrapping it and making storage dams for other procers.

Farmers' friends in congress now see that they could not secure adequate governmental operation of these plants even if they desired it. They haven't the votes. These facts leave only one effective, if a private company experienced in fertilizer production could be induced to lease and operate the Muscle Shoals properties on a basis that would guarantee cheap fertilizer production and yet pay the Government a reasonable return on its investment—that would be generally recognized as an ideal solution.

"With exactly this kind of offer worked out and embodied in a bill to be introduced by Congressman Martin D. Madden, of Illinois, and with President Coolidge urging early settlement of this question, farmers and many congressional leaders feel that there is no adequate excuse for any more delay on the part of congress in accepting the offer of the American Cyanamid Company as set forth in the Madden bill."

SUTTEE RITE STILL PERSISTS IN INDIA

British Authorities Fail to Stop Practice.

Bombay, India.—On the banks of the Ganges in India the other day a Hindu woman mounted to the top of her husband's funeral pyre, while a crowd of 5,000 natives ringed her around to acclaim the religious merit of the widow who was about to immolate herself in the ancient rite of suttee. In 1829 the barbaric rite was prohibited by the British in India and severe penalties are now meted out to those who attempt to commit or instigate suttee, which is held equivalent to attempting or abetting suicide.

As the flames burst from the pyre on which the widow lay with the body of her dead husband the police charged the mob, but were unable to fight their way through. The victim refused to leave the pyre until the torture proved too great for her. When reinforcements appeared the police rescued the victim, who had fled to the river, and seized three Hindus, who were charged with acting as ringleaders. The woman later died.

Rite Persists.

Despite stringent prohibition of the rite, suttee has persisted in isolated cases to this day. The Indians revere the widow who immolates herself to the status of a martyr, with the result that crowds rush to obtain relics of the victim. As late as 1911 a woman poured kerosene on her clothes and ignited herself in a "home" suttee, and there are records of the illegal rite in Bihar during 1901, 1903, 1904 and 1905. Nepal, located outside British rule, maintained suttee until quite recently. Three women committed suttee at the funeral of Sir Jung Bahadur in 1877.

Literally countless widows, many of them mere girls, have sacrificed themselves in suttee. Most European authorities credit its origin to the Scythians, the central Asian race, the funerals of whose kings saw huge holocausts of slaves. As many as 3,000 women at one time were buried on the pyres of Indian rulers between the Fourteenth and Sixteenth centuries. The most appalling rate of suttee in comparatively recent times was listed in the year 1818, when in Bengal alone 839 native widows burned with their husbands.

The Rajput women were the bravest by far in facing death through fire. Their husbands were warriors and they met suttee willingly. A dagger, lamp or a knife was placed in the hand of the Rajput girl or boy on coming of age, to signify the death that some day each must die.

For years the British East India company refrained from prohibiting suttee, fearing to arouse the religious fanaticism of the natives, but eventually the force of public opinion in England prevailed and in 1829 it was banned by law from the provinces under Anglo-Saxon rule. The Mongol conquerors of India endeavored to suppress suttee, and Akbar, it is said, once rode 100 miles at a gallop to rescue the daughter-in-law of the rajah of Jodhpur from the funeral pyre.

After the British prohibition, however, the rite lasted in the semi-independent states for decades, the Punjab and Rajasthan retaining it in full force. In south India it was the custom for the widow to leap into a blazing pit, while in north India she ascended the pyre and held the head of her dead husband in her lap. The torch was applied by the eldest son or nearest male relative. The Hindu suttee stood for an act typifying the highest degree of wedded love.

Stenos Can't Keep Up With French Orators

Paris.—Frenchmen's disposition to talk long and rapidly makes it necessary to have ten stenographers work in relays in both the chamber of deputies and the senate. Each works three minutes, then goes out to transcribe his notes and rest.

The fastest talker in parliament is Senator Leon Perrier, minister of colonies. Stop-watch tests show he speaks at the rate of 220 words a minute. The next fastest talker is the elderly Alsatian, Senator Lazare Weiller, who gets off 200 words a minute.

Premier Poincare never varies his speed. He gives out in a crisp, biting voice, between 160 words a minute, whether he speaks for a minute or an hour. He never hesitates and never forgets. He usually speaks extemporaneously, but when he prepares a speech he writes it himself, in longhand, and once he has written it he has memorized it.

Canada Gains Pigeon "Army" Aid From U. S.

Washington.—The War department is furnishing the Canadian department of national defense details of organization and equipment of the pigeon lofts operated by the signal corps of the army as part of the military communication system. This information is to be used as a guide in the contemplated establishment of a similar service in the Canadian army.

The signal corps maintains 17 pigeon lofts, the largest, at Fort Monmouth, N. J., a breeding loft, containing 600 birds.

The second largest loft is at Scofield barracks, Hawaii, where 210 birds are kept in training. There are two other lofts in Hawaii and one in the Philippine islands, three in the Panama Canal Zone, and several in different parts of the United States.

CARRIES DEAD WIFE ON 30-MILE DRIVE

Frightened Mate Brings Body of Bride to Mother.

Ottawa, Ill.—With the body of his girl-bride on the automobile seat beside him a few evenings ago, Louis Grove of South Ottawa, stunned with fear and grief, sped to the home of his parents at Granville, 30 miles away. Time and again as the car would swing around curves on the road that led through Peru and Spring Valley the body would roll off to the floor of the car. Without slackening the pace he would lift it back on the seat with his left hand, continuing to steer with his right.

Through the towns and villages through which he passed he narrowly missed running into pedestrians and vehicles, but he didn't even slow up. Only one thing was on his mind—to get to his mother as quickly as he could with his wife whom he was convinced had suffered some attack or stroke and was merely unconscious.

Tonsilitis Suspected.

He didn't know his wife was dead and that for the next 24 hours the townspeople would hold suspicions that he might have been responsible for her death and that it would take an autopsy and a coroner's jury to free him of that suspicion.

Late in summer Grove, who formerly lived with his mother at Granville, and Miss Julia Bell Hill of Seneca, Ill., were married and took up their residence at South Ottawa, where the groom was employed by a furniture firm. The bride, a beautiful young woman, had just passed her eighteenth birthday a week before the wedding. She was a June graduate of the high school in her home town. The few months the couple lived in their cozy apartments was a real honeymoon, according to the neighbors.

A few evenings ago Louis came home from the store, ate supper with his wife, and then helped her with the dishes. He then went out to the garage to clean his car and was gone about twenty-five minutes.

When he returned to the house he found Mrs. Grove lying on the bed. He spoke to her and received no reply. Then he shook her gently and still there was no response. Her eyes were open but did not look at him. He became panic stricken. There was another family in the next apartment building, but Grove was afraid to go to his mother's home. He grabbed his overcoat and threw it about his wife and carried her to the car and was off for Granville.

It was nearly eight o'clock when he left South Ottawa and nine when he reached Granville. He was bewildered when he staggered into his mother's home, bearing his wife in his arms. He thought she was only unconscious as her body was still warm. His fa ther immediately called a physician who pronounced her dead for more than an hour and a half.

The news of the woman's death quickly spread through Granville and many began to talk of suicide or murder. There was no sign of violence on her body, although her dress became soiled when she slipped down to the floor of the car. No evidence of acids or poison, but the story of such a sudden and mysterious death aroused the state's attorney and coroner to take action.

Decide on Autopsy.

An autopsy was decided upon and this was held early next day. Grove was questioned closely by the state's attorney, but under stress of the ordeal, however, cleared the young man of suspicion, as the surgeon who performed it decided the young woman an died from natural causes. All vital organs of the body were found normal except the thymus gland, which was enlarged to the size of an ordinary hand, and the blood vessels and tissues lymphaticus, had pressed down on the heart until that organ ceased to function.

The coroner's jury brought in a verdict according to the finding of the surgeon who performed the autopsy. The only doubt that was in their minds was why the husband did not call a South Ottawa physician instead of making the trip to Granville and Ottawa. His own actions, when questioned, corroborated the theory that the finding of his wife, as he thought, unconscious, was such a shock to him that he was unable to act normally.

Baboons May Be Bred for Domestic Servants

London.—In case anyone should want a baboon to aid in certain household duties, such as dusting, sweeping and other simple tasks, it would take only 20 years of scientific breeding to render the animal sufficiently intelligent for this purpose. This is the theory of Prof. Frederick Alexander Lindemann, professor of experimental philosophy at Oxford, as quoted by the marquis of Donegall, writing in the Sunday News.

Regarding world progress in the next 50 years, Professor Lindemann believes that science will make the greatest strides on the physical and biological, rather than on the mechanical, side.

Lesson for February 12

JESUS PICTURES THE KINGDOM OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:14,15; 4:1-34.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thy kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

PRIMARY TOPIC—How God's Kingdom Grows.

JUNIOR TOPIC—How God's Kingdom Grows.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How the Kingdom Grows.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Growing Kingdom of God.

I. Jesus Preaching the Gospel of the Kingdom of God (Mark 1:14, 15).

1. The time.

After the voice of John the Baptist was stilled because of his imprisonment, Jesus took up the message.

2. What He preached.

It was the gospel of the kingdom of God. Since "gospel" means "good news," the good news which He preached was that Christ had come to establish His kingdom.

3. How He preached.

He said, "Repent, for the kingdom is at hand." The King was then ready to set up His kingdom if the Jews would receive Him.

II. Jesus Pictures Four Classes of Hearers (Mark 4:1-20).

1. The place—the seaside—(v. 1).

He was obliged to enter a boat to escape the pressure of the crowd.

2. Why He taught in parables (vv. 9-12).

It was not until the rulers had set their hearts against Him that He employed the parabolic method.

3. The parable of the four kinds of ground (vv. 3-8;13-20).

Observe that the seed and the sower are the same in all these instances, but the results are entirely different, determined by the condition of the soil.

(1) The Wayside (vv. 14, 15).

The wayside means the track beaten by the boots of animals and the feet of men. Because the soil was unbroken and uncultivated the seed could not get beneath the surface, therefore was devoured by Satan, who represents the agents of Satan (v. 15).

(2) The stony ground (vv. 5, 6, 16, 17).

Stony ground means stones with a thin layer of soil upon them. Under such conditions the seed springs up quickly and is soon scorched because it has not much depth.

(3) The thorny ground (vv. 7, 18, 19).

In this case the ground is good, but has thorns in it. It is mellow and has depth, but has not been cleared of the thorns. The thorny ground hearers of this age are: (a) Those who are so immersed in worldliness, business and anxious care that the good seed cannot mature; (b) those who are rich. The effect of riches is often to blind the spiritual perceptions; (c) those who are running after the pleasures of life. All these things choke the Word.

4. The good ground (vv. 8, 20).

This ground differs from all the rest. It is soft and mellow, deep and moist, therefore is capable of bringing forth fruit in varying degrees of abundance.

III. Jesus Pictures the Growth of the Kingdom (Mark 4:21-34).

1. The parable of the candle (vv. 21-25).

The bushel stands for the cares and material things of life, and the bed for ease and comfort.

2. The parable of the growing grain (vv. 26-29).

(1) The attitude of mind of the gospel preacher (vv. 26, 27).

He should work with the utmost fidelity and lead into the ground, preach the Word, and leave results to God.

(2) The processes of the spiritual life are gradual (v. 28). It is "first the blade, then the ear, after that the full corn in the ear."

(3) The consummation of the spiritual process (v. 29).

Despite the difficulty under which being is done, we can be assured of a harvest time.

3. The parable of the mustard seed (vv. 30-34).

(1) The unimportant beginning (v. 31).

It is vigorous growth (v. 32).

The greatest possible growth attained today is that which had its inception in the preaching of the gospel.

(3) Its lodging capacity (v. 32)

The birds which lodge in the branches represent the children of God or those who find protection and food in that which was inaugurated by Jesus Christ.

VERA

Misses Kate and Lucile O'Brien, Mannye Inge, Annie Alvis, Ocie Jones, Mrs. Helen Welch and Mrs. F. A. O'Brien motored to town Saturday.

We regret to note that Mr. Bob O'Brien is still confined to his bed. We hope he may recover soon.

Miss Verna Morris is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. A. E Torrence.

The second of February was a clear day and every body knows what the old saying is about the ground hog, so we will not have any good roads yet awhile.

Miss Vara Morris and Miss Daisy Robertson spent the week-end with Mrs. North Robertson.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Robertson spent Saturday in Lynchburg.

There was preaching at New Hope Sunday by our pastor, Rev. Burnette. A very small attendance on account of rain.

Miss Lizzie Coleman and Mrs. Baldwin, of Richmond, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Coleman.

The W. M. U., of New Hope, will have their regular monthly meeting Saturday, Feb. 11, with Mrs Alex Gobble. All the members are invited for the day to do some work on the missionary quilt. Come and bring a new member.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Carnefix gave a very enjoyable rook party Monday night. There was splendid music given by Mr. Carnefix and games were played until a late hour. All those present enjoyed themselves immensely at such a happy gathering and left wishing to be present at many more rook parties.

Bent Creek

Snow, ice, rain and mud all due to that ground hog, when he saw his shadow last Thursday, so says a lot of people. The writer has been in the 2 day of Feby. may govern the next six weeks of weather, but away with the ground hog theory; his hogship doesn't know.

The most of our farmers are through selling tobacco and were more satisfactory than last year. We hear the cry my tobacco did not pay me out.

Mercantile business are running after the pleasures of life. All these things choke the Word.

4. The good ground (vv. 8, 20).

This ground differs from all the rest. It is soft and mellow, deep and moist, therefore is capable of bringing forth fruit in varying degrees of abundance.

In Memoriam

In loving remembrance of our darling mother, Mrs. Sallie Coleman, who departed this life three years ago to-day, Feby. 9 1925. Darling mother you have left us,

But your memory is still with us,

As you always were before,

All is dark within our dwelling, Lonely are our hearts to-day,

For the one we loved so dearly, Has forever passed away.

Father and Children.

Well Expressed

When a man has not a good reason for doing a thing, he has one good reason for letting it alone.—Sir Walter Scott.
